What our students say

Ba Shekneh

Mali · General Medicine, 2nd year

It was a spontaneous decision. But once I started doing my research, I learned that NSMU is regarded as one of the best medical universities in Russia. So I chose to come here — and I haven't regretted it for a moment.

The adjustment went pretty quickly. Nothing was particularly difficult. If you come to study and you really want to study, you'll make it. The professors and students are very welcoming.

If you're thinking about studying medicine in Russia, Novosibirsk is a great choice. Just come with the will to learn. The rest will fall into place.

I chose Russia, and specifically NSMU, on the recommendation of a friend who told me about the quality of education at this university. My adaptation went smoothly and quickly because the university provided us with the right conditions to facilitate both our studies and student life. After graduating, I plan to return to my home country and pursue a residency program. I would definitely recommend studying here because NSMU is a good university where you can gain a wealth of knowledge and experience.

I chose NSMU on the recommendation of my traumatology professor, who told me that Novosibirsk — and especially NSMU — has an excellent neurosurgery department. The international student community here is very welcoming: students are always ready to support, help, and offer advice. After completing my residency, I plan to start working as a physician. My advice to future students: prepare yourself mentally for being away from home and family, take your studies seriously, and don't be discouraged if things don't go perfectly at first. The most important thing is to keep going and never give up.
